Murderers of Capt. Frank Cooper Executed in Maryland. (By Ass cisted Press.)

These murderers were young men from Carter's Creek, Va., where Capt. Cooper made his home, and whence he sailed with them in his schooner.

The vessel was lying at Itea's Island, Somerset County, Md., June 16 last, when the captain was attacked by the man after he had retired for the night, and leaten to death for the money which be was supposed to have in his wallet.

The murderers were tracked to Virginia, arrested and brought back to Maryland in the face of a mob which the decided to reache them.

The prisoners confessed and gave all the horrible details of the murder. On Oct. 13 they were convicted, and on Oct. If sentenced to death.

It is said that there are some prisoners in jail who would secure their liberty if they would fight the matter. The Police Justices are looking the matter up. Commissioner of Jurors Furey said he did not know the law had been amended, and there had been no application for jurors for Police Courts.

The number of prisoners in the Pententiary who would be affected by the amendment is said to be few.
